

After the dusting off we gave the Arkansas Gazette yesterday for its hot-and-cold policy on school finance problems I suppose its only fair to re-state a proposition the Gazette outlined in last Sunday's editorial.

"How shall local units (school districts) be induced to move for revision of assessments to raise needed revenue?" asks the Gazette. "Under a plan in use in Kentucky, state money is denied to school districts that are not doing their part. The Arkansas Legislative Council has directed its staff to work out a formula for distributing school aid on the basis of local effort, account taken of local school millage, assessed valuation of property, density of population, and per capita income."

"Representative L. H. Autry, who is superintendent of schools at Burdette, Mississippi county, is working on a measure that would substitute a measuring of local money for the present state contributions. He points out that 75 per cent of the school districts get more than 75 per cent of their money from the state, and some get about 90 per cent. And this educator says the situation is getting worse every year."

So much for the Gazette piece. Apparently the Hope school district is receiving 75 per cent of its revenue from the state. At least this was the statement made in an executive meeting of school and business men and city officials to which I was invited about a year ago at Hope High school. What shocked me was the fact that when I was on the local school board years ago we got no state aid at all. The obvious conclusion is that local school expense has gone up 400 per cent.

I am inclined to go along with Arkansas Legislative Council's proposal to set up a formula for matching state aid with local assessment and tax effort—but this isn't the whole story.

Nothing has been said anywhere, apparently, about the obvious discrepancy between run-away school budgets and the fact that Arkansas' population has gone down—not up—in the last 10 years. And one of the sharpest drops was right here in Hempstead county.

For this inflation I blame the State Department of Education. They have been using a lot of tough language toward local school districts, on the grounds that the state could dictate the size of local budgets because the state was standing most of the cost anyway.

Well, the state has taken down its flag and is now calling for local help.

The schools will get help, but some of the schoolmen won't. Taxes are only half the answer. The school budget is the other half.

Forestry Field Day Set for November 24

The first annual Hempstead County forestry field day will be held Friday, November 24 at 1:30 o'clock on the Burton Ellis farm located 9 miles northeast of Hope in the Jewel Burke store neighborhood. Proper forest management, fire control, and planting will be shown according to Oliver L. Adams, Hempstead County Agent.

For the past several years Mr. Ellis has practiced selective cutting on all his woodland. His farm records show that a total of 350,000 board feet of timber have been harvested from 60 acres of land in the past 15 years. This is about 300 board feet per acre per year. The actual income has averaged $5.30 per acre per year. At current prices this would have amounted to over $10.

The results of good fire control can be seen in the abundance of natural reproduction where the timber has been thinned. A system of fire guards are maintained to aid fire protection. Mr. Burton Ellis, District Forester with the Division of Forestry & Parks will be on hand to show how the Division of Forestry & Parks operate and demonstrate the equipment used in fire fighting.

A tree planting machine furnished by the Hope Chamber of Commerce will be demonstrated by the soil conservation service. This machine will be available to Hempstead County farmers for tree planting during the present season.

Mr. Ellis has done an excellent job of farm management according to Robert Nelson, Extension Farm Forester, Oliver L. Adams, Hempstead County Agent and Robert Nelson, Extension Farm Forester urge all interested farmers to be with them on Friday at the Ellis farm.

National Output Nears Goal Set by President

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The nation's total output of goods and services is within about five percent of a goal President Truman once set for 1955. And it's growing fast.

An annual rate of $284,300,000,000 was attained during the third quarter of this year after a $14,000,000,000 upsurge from the preceding quarter, the commerce department reported yesterday.

Last January, President Truman spoke of a prosperity goal of a $300,000,000,000 gross national product "within five years." Gross national product is a term economists use to sum up the output of all goods and services.

The $284,300,000,000 rate of the July-September period may not be as close to the President's goal as it seems at first glance, however.

Mr. Truman specified he meant $300,000,000,000 worth of goods and services measured by the prices prevailing last January. The gross national product has spurred $30,000,000,000 since then, but a big part of the dollar-volume gain can be attributed to price increases.

The commerce department said that the swelling output was brought about largely by record consumer spending. Consumers went on a spree in 1950's third quarter, tossing their money on retail counters at a rate of $198,400,000,000 a year.

Fulton School Makes Many Improvements

Fulton Grade School has been a part of Hope District I-A for two years.

H. F. Rider, principal, lives in Hope and teaches the seventh and eighth grades. Mrs. W. A. Abbott, who lives in Fulton, teaches the first and second grades. Mrs. Ruby Barber, who resides in Hope, teaches the fifth and sixth. Mrs. Tom Hill lives in Fulton and teaches the third and fourth. One Board of Education member, Sam McGill, resides in Fulton.

The lunch room attendants are Mrs. Gus Davis and Mrs. J. W. Walden. The custodian is F. H. Harrell. Two busses transport the children to and from school. The drivers are Earl Treece and Marion Hawthorne.

The school has a pine playground for its 82 students. The auditorium has a large seating capacity. Recently 15 loads of sand were placed on the front lawn.

Fulton has its own 16 MM projector and shows film each week. These films correlate the subject matter taught in the classroom. Films arrive weekly from the Audio-Visual Service, State Dept. of Education, in Little Rock.

Such films as "Story of Our Flag," "Safety to and from School," "How Nature Protects Animals," "Washington, D. C.," and "What Makes Rain" will be shown to the students. They will also see approximately 50 stripfilms throughout the year.

With part of the money made at the recent Halloween Carnival, the Fulton PTA bought the school a set of Comptons' Encyclopedias.

The men will work while the women prepare the lunch to be served at the park.

All Negro citizens who can spare the time are asked to share in this program.

The organization also launched a financial drive in the interest of the park. The goal is $3000. The campaign will run for 4 weeks.

New Shipments to China Will Be Investigated

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—A senate subcommittee ordered a public airing today of new evidence about round-the-world shipments of Japanese copper to Communist China.

Called to testify were officials of export firms which had a part in trade that sent the war-useful metal from U. S.-occupied Japan to New York City and then to China.

In advance of the public hearing they had told their stories behind closed doors to a senate commerce subcommittee investigating shipments of oil, metals and other strategic materials to Communist China.

At an open session about three weeks ago the subcommittee, headed by Senator O'Connor (DMd), received testimony that nearly 4,000,000 pounds of Japanese copper had been hauled to China by way of New York.

The shipments were made prior to the tightening of controls over exports of Japanese copper last July. A ban had been placed on shipments of U. S. produced copper to Communist areas a year earlier.

O'Connor said last night that millions of pounds of tin mill products have also been shipped from this country to Red China.

In a statement, O'Connor said that although the materials are second grade "they can and easily are manufactured into strategic products." He called on the commerce department to halt such exports. A department spokesman said a close watch is being kept on the situation.

The senator said that in the past five months 19,381,014 pounds of tin mill products have been shipped from New York alone to Red China and British Hong Kong, off the China coast. There have been shipments from other ports, he added.

The companies whose officials were called as witnesses today either bought the copper in Japan or while it was in transit and later sold it to other companies which sold it to Chinese customers.

An official of the Kane Import Co. of New York City testified at the earlier public hearing that his firm bought more than 3,500,000 pounds of Japanese copper and shipped it out of New York to the North China import corporation.

Public Cautioned About Trash Burning

Fire Chief Willis appealed to the people of Hope today to be extra cautious in burning trash during the dry winter months. The department made six grass fire calls this morning—all caused by trash burning.

"Don't go off and leave any kind of a fire," Mr. Willis pleaded. Just a spark will touch off dry grass and could result in serious damage. If you have a cangery yard of grass that needs burning please contact the fire department and every effort will be made to burn it off as soon as possible, he appealed.

Tree Planting in Machine Age

Further proof that trees are a prop and tree farming is a form of agriculture is this mechanical tree planter. The machine enables two men to plant as many seedling trees in a day as 10 men, working with hand tools, can do. This nearly barren field, in a few years, will yield a cash wood crop. This is tree farming southern style.

Hempstead county's tree planting machine will be delivered to Hope on Wednesday, November 22. It was announced today by J. I. Leblond, Secretary-Manager of the Hope Chamber of Commerce. The machine, designed by Mark Justus of Prescott and manufactured by the Fallin Tractor Company of Magnolia, is considered by foresters to be one of the best available for planting in the southern pine region. It will plant up to 12,500 trees daily.

The planter will be on display at the county courthouse from November 22 until about November 30, when tree planting operations are scheduled to begin. It will be operated by Foy Hammons for the Hope Chamber of Commerce. Planting charge will be $5.00 per 1000 trees, or about $3.50 per acre.

Landowners planning to plant trees, who have not submitted applications for trees, are urged to contact the Hope Chamber of Commerce, the County Agent or the Soil Conservation District office this week.

Sees Price, Wage Control Need in Spring

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Senator Ives (R-NY) predicted today that wage-price controls will be needed by spring.

"At the rate things are going," he told reporters, "we are going to have to have them, by spring anyway. Otherwise prices are going right through the roof."

Congress, before adjourning in September, gave President Truman broad powers to invoke wage and price controls, on selected items or generally. However, he must control wages and prices simultaneously.

Ives said he believes intelligent administration of the act would put an effective brake on inflation, despite new controls on consumer prices which he said threaten to send prices rocketing.

Ives said he has no objection to congressional action on rent controls, but would resist passage of any federal statute that would in

Floods Rip West Leaving Nine Dead

Torrents of mountain-fed flood waters ripped through northern and central California and western Nevada this morning, driving thousands of persons from their homes and doing untold amounts of property damage.

At least nine persons are dead from the floods, which started on its third day of rampage with added force from mountain rains and melting snow.

Here is how the situation stacks up at the moment:

Nevada—The main section of Reno is a tumbled mass of mud, debris and torn paving after the swirling Truckee river—normally three to four feet deep at this time of year—roared 20 feet deep and three blocks wide through the center of "the biggest little city in the world."

The Truckee burst its banks with crushing force at 10:30 last night, flooding swank hotels and gambling casinos. For hours the downtown section was under six to eight feet of water, but the flood was receding today. One death was attributed to the racing waters.

California—Governor Earl Warren declared a state of emergency over the raging floods in the Central valley. The Yuba county sheriff's office ordered the evacuation of an estimated 3,500 residents from East Lodi, a near Marysville, in the area of the threat of the flooding Yuba and its tributaries. The muddy, torrential, which has a 100 ft. smashed through levees in three places and inundated the towns of Hammon and Marigold, continues to rise.

The American river burst its banks near Sacramento and flooded thousands of acres of suburban land, driving 1,000 people from their homes.

Eight California deaths were attributed, directly or indirectly, to the floods.

The U. S. weather bureau at San Francisco predicted "moderate to heavy rain" for the high Sierra today—the ninth straight day of storms.

Reno, a gaudy little city of casinos and quick divorces, reeled under the impact of the flood. Muddy water raced through the business district in a stream three blocks wide, sweeping in trees, benches, cars in its rage.

The plush Riverside hotel had five feet of water on its main floor. The ultra swank Mapes hotel measured six feet of water in its lobby. Merchants reported thousands of dollars of damage to Christmas merchandise stored in flooded basements.

United Air Lines scheduled a special plane to evacuate stranded travelers, but canceled it because two Nevada Airlines planes were called out in arms to prevent looting and keep residents from danger zones.

All of the city's eight bridges across the Truckee were completely under water.

Two big sewer mains over the river on the east side of Reno were broken.

Two persons died as a result of the Reno flood. An unidentified man died of a heart attack while attempting to save stock in the basement of a department store. Another unidentified man committed suicide by jumping into the flood waters.

The Reno flood was reported to have crested at 1:15 a.m. and it was hoped the waters would be receding. However, an unofficial report said the crest still was 25 miles upriver.

The biggest threat in California was in the Sutter-Yuba county area. Dikes along the flooding Bear river broke, sending streams of water into the towns of Hammon and Marigold.

Sheriff's officers reported a number of Hammon residents had huddled in the upper stories of an office building there. They were in no immediate danger.

In the Marigold district scores of persons were stranded on gold dredging piles along the river. They were reported to be safe. No casualties were reported in the Hammon-Marigold area.

The current was too strong for boats to maintain rescue operations.

At Sacramento the American river spilled over levees late last night, chasing some 700 residents from homes along the river.

Governor Earl Warren alerted California National guardsmen as the river lapped higher and higher. Active public works will be underway, Wayward, Syvelle, Ladell, Carl Wayne, and Jack Lloyd Burke and Leo Parris.

Postoffice to Observe 30th as Thanksgiving

Since November 30 has been designated by the State of Arkansas as Thanksgiving Day, and will be observed locally instead of November 23, the Hope post office will also observe November 30.

There will be full window service and delivery on city routes November 23, but these services will be suspended November 30 and the post office will be closed.

Rural service, however, is fixed by law and is not subject to the same provisions as the other services. Consequently, there will be no rural service on November 23, but service on the rural routes will be given on November 30.

All local business houses and most offices will be open as usual on November 23 and will observe Thanksgiving with the rest of the state on November 30. The Star will also suspend publication on November 30.

War in Spring Certain Say UN Officers

On the Northeast Front, Korea, Nov. 21 (AP). United Nations intelligence officers predict the Korean war will continue well into next spring.

Wild, inaccessible mountains, head-high snow drifts and temperatures 20 degrees and more below zero will delay the U. N. victory, they fear.

They consider enemy resistance a secondary factor.

They do not believe the North Korean and Chinese Communists can build a winter line which could hold—if U. N. forces could bludgeon it with full strength.

But sub-zero temperatures will cut combat efficiency. Most of the U. N. army's resources will be absorbed in just keeping men alive and in the line.

Any winter cleanup offensive in an area where the terrain and poor roads would give the Communists all the advantages is virtually out of the question, these officers say.

This is what qualified intelligence sources expect the deep winter to bring:

First—Increasing "bad feeling" between North Korean and Chinese Communists.

The Koreans and Chinese never have been on particularly good terms in Asia. Recently-captured North Korean prisoners bitterly complain they are thrown into the frontlines while the Chinese remain in the rear. This bad feeling—similar to that between Italians and the Germans in the last war—is expected to grow.

Second—a buildup of organized guerrilla activity to harass U. N. forces both at the front and rear. Most guerrilla activity so far has been by bypassed North Korean units.

As time goes on, "line passers" who slip through the front are expected to build the guerrillas' nuisance value. They are expected to furnish more intelligent planning and better execution. Some probably will come from special Communist guerrilla training schools in Red territory.

Third—sub-zero weather is expected to hurt the ill-equipped enemy more than the U. N. forces. In spring, cold weather casualties may have reduced the Communists' fighting power sharply.

A winter campaign, however, does not mean U. N. advances are not expected to continue.

Arrival of the first Americans at the Manchurian-Korean frontier yesterday was expected to provide a big psychological uplift to the troops.

No Shot Fired as Yanks Reach Manchuria

Soul, Nov. 21 (AP)—U. S. Infantrymen entered Manchuria today, but no shot was fired.

Only the narrow, ice-choked river lay between them and Chinese territory. The 17th regimental team—were the first Americans to reach the Manchurian border.

U. S. war planes flew over the smoldering ruins wrecked down as weary men slogged the last few through snow.

terfere with New York's state rent control law.

"Our law is so superior to any federal statute, there just is no comparison," he said.

Rep. Spence (D-KY) quoted President Truman as saying yesterday he wants congress this year to extend federal controls for three months beyond Dec. 31. The law makes return next Monday.

Rent controls, first imposed during the war, are due to expire at the end of the year except in communities which take positive action to extend them for another six months.

Spence, who heads the house banking committee, said he will offer legislation to carry out Mr. Truman's idea for a three-month extension and will call hearings on it.

Prospects for passage are not bright. However, especially in the senate.

On another aspect of the controls picture, W. Stuart Symington suggested yesterday that the federal government should not lay "too heavy a hand" on use of strategic materials for civilian purposes. To do so, he told a news conference, "might hurt the economy."

As coordinator of the whole defense program, Symington has considerable influence on what steps are taken.

Consider Many Taxes Harris Advises

Nov. 21 (P) — (P) — Harris (P) said today that the best way of coming out of the war profits tax was to pay for war expenditures and defense preparations. "As we go along," he said, "it is apparent the money is going to come from corporate earnings and business interests."

"But," he said, "in view of past experiences and in view of the many excess profit cases still pending in courts from the last war, consideration should be given to various taxing methods to determine the best method."

"After all," he said, "there is a lot more involved than a mere political label."

An outright excess profits tax, Harris said, might work a hardship on small concerns which have had low earnings in recent years and hence would have a low base while the big corporations, with high earnings in recent years, would have a high base and would escape such a tax.

This is a question which should be studied, Harris said, adding: "I certainly am for taxing profits but I don't want to vote for something that would prove a windfall for some group of corporations while others are hurt."

Sanctioned Little League baseball teams now are operating in 28 states and total 302. The players must be between the ages of eight and 12.

Sanctioned Little League baseball teams now are operating in 28 states and total 302. The players must be between the ages of eight and 12.

Nov. 21 (P) — (P) — Harris (P) said today that the best way of coming out of the war profits tax was to pay for war expenditures and defense preparations. "As we go along," he said, "it is apparent the money is going to come from corporate earnings and business interests."

"But," he said, "in view of past experiences and in view of the many excess profit cases still pending in courts from the last war, consideration should be given to various taxing methods to determine the best method."

"After all," he said, "there is a lot more involved than a mere political label."

An outright excess profits tax, Harris said, might work a hardship on small concerns which have had low earnings in recent years and hence would have a low base while the big corporations, with high earnings in recent years, would have a high base and would escape such a tax.

This is a question which should be studied, Harris said, adding: "I certainly am for taxing profits but I don't want to vote for something that would prove a windfall for some group of corporations while others are hurt."

Rogge Lets Communists Have It Hard

By MAX HALL
(For James Marlow)
Washington, Nov. 21 (P) — John Rogge, a hefty man with a hog-caller voice, once did a wretched job on the Huey Long machine.

Later he prosecuted 30 persons in a fantastic mass sedition trial in Washington.

Still later he became associated with numerous "peace" undertakings under Communist sponsorship here and abroad.

This week he went behind the Iron Curtain and stuck pins in the Stalinists and made them furious. In Warsaw, Poland, at one of those world peace meetings that the Communists are forever sponsoring, Rogge got the floor Sunday and dramatically denounced Communist aggression and Communist "religious fanaticism," which he called a roadblock to human progress. The booring was terrific.

It was not the first time that Rogge had criticized Russia in such meetings, but he had never gone so far before. Not everybody booed. Some delegates from non-Communist countries applauded.

There could be no doubt that the Soviet propaganda drive had been dealt a blow.

Rogge's career, so bewildering to most Americans, parallels that of Henry Wallace in some respects.

Both men were kicked out of the Truman administration in the fall of 1946.

Both came to believe that it was possible to work with Communists toward the objective of peace. They thought the U. S. was handling the international situation all wrong. They worked together in the Progressive party, which put Wallace up for President in 1948.

Now both men have become disillusioned about the peaceful intentions of world communism. Wallace had quit the Progressive party. Rogge stayed in the party to try to persuade it to stop blaming the U. S. for the Korean war. (So far he has made no headway.) Rogge also tried to change the Communist-sponsored "Stockholm between the eyes."

peace appeal" and, failing, renounced his support of it.

Rogge (pronounced Roggy) is 48 years old. He was born on a farm in Illinois, of German immigrant parents. He made a notable record at the University of Illinois and the Harvard Law school.

As a young Chicago lawyer he was called into the government from time to time to prosecute tough cases for the reconstruction finance corporation, securities and exchange commission, and treasury department.

In 1939 he joined the justice department as assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division. He spent eight months in Louisiana, spreading alarm and prison sentences among political heirs of Huey Long, who had been assassinated in 1935.

Rogge left the department at the end of 1940, but was brought back in 1943 to prosecute the famous mass sedition case. After seven months of courtroom nightmare, the judge died and a mistrial was declared.

Until the sedition case, Rogge had seemed utterly oblivious to political considerations or ideologies. In 1946 came a turning point in his life. He went to Europe to gather evidence for a resumption of the sedition case, and collected a lot of material on American Fascists. He came back zealous and full of fight.

Rogge made a report to Attorney General Tom Clark. Clark didn't publish it. Rogge began making speeches about his findings. Clark fired him on the ground of violating regulations.

Rogge entered private practice in New York and continued his anti-Fascist speeches. The American left wing cheered him. Left-wingers brought him law cases. He became a crusader for civil rights. He plunged into peace movements, and went to Paris, London, Prague, Stockholm, Mexico City, and other places to speak at conferences.

Last spring he became a registered lobbyist for the Yugoslav government, which is Communist but anti-Moscow.

That didn't endear him to the Stalinists of the world.

But even before this, he was speaking his mind with increasing frankness at the "peace" meetings. Finally, he has let 'em have it.

State Purchases New Hunting, Fishing Grounds

Little Rock, Nov. 21 — The Arkansas Game and Fish commission has tentatively purchased some 17,000 acres of land for public hunting and fishing grounds.

Executive Secretary T. A. McAmis said one tract of 10,000 acres is located on the Black river in Clay county.

The other area of 7,000 acres adjoins the Big Lake federal waterfowl refuge in Mississippi county near Manila. This is the only remaining large wooded tract in the county, McAmis said.

Both areas will be open to hunters of the duck season beginning Dec. 2.

"Anyone who wants (and has a license) will be welcome to hunt in the areas," McAmis said.

The commission at a meeting yesterday also formally dedicated a new $80,000 radio network. The system includes six field stations and 125 mobile units for game and fish commission employees.

Council Slashes Funds From PSC Commission

Little Rock, Nov. 21 (P) — The Arkansas legislative council yesterday cut about $51,800 from the proposed budget of the Arkansas Public Service Commission.

Public Service commission, left salaries as they are now and eliminated the position of commission attorney.

The council action is subject to review by the 1951 legislature.

Sen. Lee Beardsley of Leachville called the PSC's proposed budget of $205,000 the "most unreasonable" the council had considered.

Salary increases were asked for nearly all employees on the commission staff.

PSC Chairman Scott Wood told the council he thought proposed increases from $5,000 to $7,500 annually for the three commission members were justified.

The council, however, refused to recommend a change.

An increase of $5,000 to $6,500 annually for a commission attorney also was asked by the PSC. In-

Charles L. Cabe Services Held at Texarkana

Texarkana, Nov. 21 (P) — Funeral services were held here yesterday for Charles Lee Cabe, 87, who died Sunday.

Cabe was owner of a mercantile business in Samps, Ark., and of stead the council recommended that this position be eliminated. The council also would cut $5,000 off a proposed $10,000 item for pay for special attorneys.
